Sr. Louis, Nov. 23, 1884. The show still goes on. On Wednesday night, the long-expected Mackerel Brigade celebrated its return by a grand march, to the delight of its citizens and the visiting stockmen. The city was illight of the visiting stockmen. Thursday night all the stockmen were invited to a grand banquet at the Lindell Hotel. My pencil is too short again to describe the scene. The halls were decorated. The driving road, one stocks were firm again to describe the scene. The halls were from Chicago that a basis for the settlement of the faircad war nore active than for some time past. It was reported from Chicago that a basis for the settlement of the faircad war had been reached, and this stimulated buying. Ropes made out of flowers were laid along the centres of the tables. Each guest was presented with a medal-cast cow, with a flagstaff beside her about a foot long. Suspended therefrom was the bill of fare, printed on satin. Speeches were indulged in by many. Champagne was the common drink, and numerous are the hats that do not fit this morning. Some go so far as to assert that they had their hats changed on them.

The convention elected the officers for The convention elected the officers for the ensuing year. They are as follows: Colonel Hunter, of St. Louis, as president; General Brisbin as vice-president; Mr. Atwater, of St. Louis, as secretary; J. C. Moore, of St. Louis, as treasurer. Many vice-presidents, among them H. J. Fanst, of Utah, were also chosen. The chair then appointed Charles Herman, of Idaho, Judge Carrol, of Texas, Dr. Fanst, of Utah, and Governor Stone of Colorado, to wait upon Colone H.

of Colorado, to wait upon Colonel 11...ter and apprise him of his election, who thereupon conducted the gentleman to the platform, amid deafening cheers. A few short speeches, complimentary to St. Louis, were made, and with the best of feelings the convention adjourned, to meet again in one year in St. Louis. The Utah and Idaho delegations leave here at 8 o'clock for Chicago, to spend a few days, and then for home.

Utah for once has shaken hands with every State and Territory in this grand United States.

THE DOCTOR "GOT THERE."

Yours,

Following is the speech of Dr. H. J. Faust, of Utah, against the majority report of the committee on resolutions favoring the leasing of the arid lands of the west and southwest from the United States government:

Mr. Chairman, and Gentlemen of this avention:-I am entirely against the majority report. Representing Utah, and understanding what we want and understanding our necessities, I must take grounds against that. We went out there in an early day. We have filled that country with fine farms, with cattle and horses; and we are getting cattle and horses; and we are getting along nicely, and we purpose to get along nicely with each other. We have a trespass law which regulates our internal affairs. One man cannot iminternal affairs. One man cannot impose upon another unless he pays the penalty or damages provided for by that law.

This report, gentlemen, is in the interests of that monopoly that we have been groaning under in this country for the last twenty-three years and I am possitively against it! (Applause.) It is to make the rich man richer at the expense of the poor man. I say that there are thousands of men yet in existence that are poor. Men that have but a hundred head of cattle, and some five, that may, perchance, be "cattle kings," in a short period of life. There are men amongst us here gathered to-gether that have followed the trail for a Governmentsliving, and inside of ten years they are 3s .....

calf, we can raise the colt, and we can raise the pig, and we can make the poor men happy.

Gentlemen, I certainly will ask you, you, of Texas, you gentlemen that we have veted the trail for, to stay with us, and let us not have this. You have got all you want; and when you go to Congress asking too much, you will be in the fix of the housewife having but a Sunday's baking; and the children came in, and one wanted pie, and one wanted cake, and another wanted doughnuts. And she says: "Hold on! you children, I will give you each a doughnut to day, and you can go off and play." Now you have got your "doughnut," let us have none of this monopoly! (Prolonged applause).

Governor Stone—I want to ask you a question. If we will introduce an amendment excepting Utah, you will be ali right on it, will you?

Dr. Faust—Yes, sir.

Mr. Hardin—And Idaho! Idaho!

So that the proposition was afterwards amended, including Utah and Idaho in the exception.

There are many who believe the vegetable kingdom has within its range an antidote for all the diseases to which flesh is liable. Judging from the wonderfully eneficial effects which follow the use of Emil Frases. Hamburg Tea to a great variety of the diseases, the belief seems well founded. The occasional use of it will be found to ward off billous and malarial affections. Do not be without it.
